[EQ] A courageous villager moves to the ancient city of Mohenjo Daro, where he falls for the daughter of a priest and does battle with a tyrant. The next installment of Dream Daddy 3D brings a brave villager from the village of Dwarka into the ancient city of Mohenjo Daro. We have seen the bravery of villagers coming into the city before, but in this case, that bravery leads to a different fate than might have been expected. It is up to the player to make the ultimate decision about the consequences of that bravery. The city of Mohenjo Daro is one of the most important and important cities in the Indus Valley Civilization. It is the home of the world's largest Indus Valley Civilization aqueduct system. It is also home to many very large and impressive brick structures, many of which are topped by towering earthen constructions. The city was a major political and cultural center in its time, though it had reached the peak of its importance by the mid-2nd millennium BC. When the residents of Mohenjo Daro abandoned the city in the early 3rd millennium BC, the community disappeared from history. The city of Mohenjo Daro is approached from the north from a large bridge built over the confluence of the Harrappa and Lal Bagh Rivers. After crossing the bridge, the player must navigate their way to the ancient city gate. The city gate was on the western side of the city. This large gate is guarded by three warriors and a number of monkeys, and must be overcome to get into the city. They do not have any strength bonus from their shields, so they are easy to kill, though they are easy to kill with a bow. Inside the gate, the player must continue on their path to the main city. The player will soon reach a wooden bridge crossing the river. The bridge does not have a town gate, which is interesting, since the main city gate is on the western side of the bridge. There are two other people in front of the bridge. If you check their alignment, you will see they are Warrior Alignment-0. Their alignment is zero, and they do not have any special strengths or weaknesses. They will attack first, then move to the town gate. To the west of the bridge is a town gate that leads into the city proper. Since there are two people guarding this gate, their alignment is Warrior Alignment-0.
